As Though You Didn't Know . . .

— By Clinton Caldwell —

We knew it was going to be a good day even before we got up. We could feel it in our bones. When we got down to the office the boss said, smilingly:

"You're a good man, Caldwell. I've decided to raise your pay to two dollars a minute."

Quick as a flash we figured it out.

"Why that'll be $960 per day," we protested.

"Sure," said the boss. "Is that bad?"

"Why not add $40 and keep it in round numbers?" we said.

"Agreed," said the boss.

Just then the phone rang and, when we picked the receiver up, Mr. Brunelli of Central Chevrolet, said:

"Come right over. I've got two new '46 Chevvies waiting here for you—a dark blue four-door sedan and a cream-colored convertible. I'll take your 1933 Dodge as a down payment and you can pay the balance off at $10 per month."

"Be right over," we said.

After we thanked Brunelli, we drove down to Irvington in the convertible, just to break it in, and then went back to the shop. There were 900 people waiting anxiously to see us.

We sat down in the new plush-covered swivel chair, which the boss had provided, and began interviewing the people as follows:

Seventeen of the people were women whose daughters had been married over the week-end. These women had all the details written out—that is, what the bride wore, what kind of a bouquet she carried, the music played, the names of the groom, and of the best man and of all the bride's maids, to say nothing of where the young couple would honeymoon and what they'd do when they returned. All we had to do was to refer the whole thing to the new petite, blonde and efficient secretary which the boss had hired for us, and let her take care of the details.

Next there were a dozen or so men who were opening up new businesses in and about town. They gladly told us all about it.

Then there were two postmasters, a banker, a minister, three chamber of commerce presidents, some garagemen, merchants and a flock of miscellaneous persons, all with front page stories which they were eager to have put in the paper.

By noon the paper was full and this was only Monday. All we'd have to do the rest of the week would be sit around with our feet on the desk and shoot the breeze with George Bonde.

After lunch (thick steak) the phone rang and E. B. Hodges said:

"Come right over. I've got a house for you to rent. It has seventeen rooms and a swimming pool. There's 113 acres of land around it and the location is excellent. Can you go as high as twelve dollars a month?"

We were about to say yes when a rude hand was laid on our shoulder and we opened our eyes to see our wife scowling down at us.

"Time to get up, Steinbeck," she said. "William Randolph Hearst might not like it if you're late for work again."

We sighed.

"Yes, my love," we said, with just a trace of sadness in our voice.

They are: Niles — George Burr, P. H. Elliott and H. L. Scott; Irvington—R. Benbow, F. Copeland and Dr. Durham; Centerville-Newark—G. Emerson and M. J. Bernardo; Decoto — George Smith and Clarence Freitas.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR REV. GRABILL THIS SUNDAY

Rev. Harley H. Gill of San Francisco, superintendent of the Northern California Conference of Congregational Churches, will conduct the memorial services of the late Rev. D. Q. Grabill this Sunday, August 25, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

NILES YOUTH IN RECORD RIFLE SHOOT

Charles Willis, son of Mrs. Ada Willis of Niles, has brought glory to himself, his family, and to the township and Washington High by breaking the record in range shooting at his Navy base in San Diego.

Shooting 178 out of a possible 180, Willis surprised himself as much as anybody else. He is 18 years old, and graduated from Washington High last June.

CAFETERIA AT CENTERVILLE TO RECEIVE SURPLUS

Centerville Elementary School cafeteria has effected an agreement with the California State Department of Education which is cooperating with the United States Department of Agriculture, Production and Marketing Administration, in making available by donation foods and commodities to California elementary schools and high schools. The only cost to schools will be a handling charge to cover distributions costs.

Limited quantities of canned pineapple, canned dehydrated tomato flakes, and canned beets are now being received for distribution. Distribution depends upon the availability of commodities.

The Centerville cafeteria is also a participating unit in the National School Lunch Act. The act provides federal aid to the states in the operation of school lunch programs as permanent and integral parts of their school systems.

A sum of $75.000.000 to carry out the National School Lunch Act was appropriated to the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1946.

Payments to the states will be made on the basis of matching funds according to the following ratio:

Fiscal years 1947 to 1950, inclusive, $1 for $1.

Fiscal years 1951 to 1955, inclusive. $1 for $1.50.

Thereafter, $1 for $3.

BARBECUE, POISON OAK, ARE NEWARK CHAMBER TOPICS

In order to rid the town of the poison oak menace in and about the eucalyptus grove adjoining the Julia Harris place, a chemical is to be used. it was decided at the regular meeting of the Newark Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night.

Richard Jolly, president of the organization, is taking care of the job of securing the chemical.

Also on the 23rd, there will be a barbecue held at the Fire Department building in Newark. The affair is being made possible through a donation by Henry Patterson, and Supervisor Stanley has been invited to attend.

According to Joseph Pashote, Newark fire chief, there is to be a discussion concerning the possibility of installing two-way radios in township fire departments.

JUNIOR CHAMBER MAKES BID FOR COUNTY BUILDING

It looked for a day or two this week like the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce was going to bat on a project that would be nice indeed for Niles and all of Washington Township.

Joe Viveiros got the idea that, since the county supervisors and the city of Hayward were in difficulties over rental price on quarters in the Hayward city hall used by the county, that the board might be influenced to put up a building down here, its southern county headquarters.

Supervisor Chester Stanley was contacted and expressed the opinion that this might be a good idea. But then agreement was reached between the county board and the Hayward city council and the Hayward offices were rented for another year.

This, however, is not a permanent situation, and before long the county will need new quarters.

Will these quarters be in Washington Township—in Niles?

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to try to make the answer to this question be "yes."

BUSINESS WOMEN LAY PLANS FOR SEPTEMBER MEET

Business and Professional Women's Clubs from Washington Township, Livermore, Concord and San Leandro will join Business and Professional Women of Hayward as co-hostesses to the Bay district's fall conference, to be held at Old Hearst Ranch September 14 and 15. Representatives of the five clubs met at the Green Shutter hotel recently to discuss conference plans.

The program will be coordinated through Mrs. Mildred Rossini and Mrs. Minnie Seaver, co-chairmen of the general committee in charge of arrangements for the affair, and the program theme will be set by Mrs. Perle Roche, bay district president.

The Spanish motif was selected by the joint committees as the feature for entertainment and decor for social events in connection with the conference. These will include the Saturday afternoon reception for delegates, which will be handled by the Livermore club, a formal dinner Saturday night to be sponsored by the Hayward group, Sunday morning breakfast directed by clubs from Washington Township and Concord, and the barbecue luncheon Sunday at which members of the San Leandro club will comprise the hostess committee.

Advance reservations from the 300 delegates who are expected to attend the conference are being handled by Mrs. Minnie Seavers of the Hayward club.

CANYON HEIGHTS TO RECEIVE NEW MAIL SERVICE

On September 16, Canyon Heights residents will have the novel and wholly delightful experience of going out in their own front yards and getting their mail, rather than having to walk down, as they have done in the past, to the central spot (near the Frick home) where the mail boxes all are now located.

The Post Office Department has authorized Rural Free Delivery mail service to Canyon Heights, mail to be delivered on most of the streets where there are homes.

IRVINGTON FILES REQUEST FOR SEWAGE PLANT

The Irvington Sanitary District last week filed a request with the State Board of Public Health for authorization to construct a sewage disposal plant, a project necessitated by state law forbidding emp-

The request, according to R. J. tying of sewage into the bay.

Wright of the sanitary board, calls for construction of a lift station, pre-aeration unit, clarifier and sludge digester. Effluent from the plant would be run off into the present sewer line.

Cost of the plant is uncertain, according to Wright. Annexation of Mission San Jose to the Irvington district is possible, in which case a larger plant will be built. This week Joe Periera of Mission San Jose started circulation of a petition for annexation of that area to the Irvington district.

Many beautiful floral pieces decorated the foyer of the theater, sent by such local organizations and business firms as the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, the Centerville Lions Club, the Centerville Fire Department, Frick's Plumbing Company and the Niles Electric Company.

On Saturday, Leonard T. Reeves, 30, of Niles, was involved in a slight accident with an automobile belonging to the sheriff's office.

According to Reeves, he had pulled to the left to pass a truck, then saw the oncoming car and was forced to cut back, striking the patrol car. No one was injured.

DECOTO PIONEER SPIRIT STRONG TODAY AS EVER

Although the recent attempt by civic-minded persons in Decoto to secure incorporation for their town suffered a temporary set-back, there is little likelihood that they will stand defeated for long.

For one thing, the people of Decoto are, withal, a progressive band. As far back as 75 years ago there were men who had faith in the future of Decoto.

Shortly after the initial attempt was made to have a town or a city at Decoto in 1870, there blew into that community a gentleman with real ideas, a lot of the go-getting spirit and a man who was not afraid of hard work. That man was Andrew Jackson Hare, a former bookkeeper for a lumber company in San Francisco.

Hare landed in Decoto as agent for the Central Pacific Railroad. He also took on the agency for an express company and, in addition to those two important posts, he accepted the appointment as postmaster. Seeing the need of a general store, Hare opened Decoto's first general mercantile establishment and later established a grain mill.

He enjoyed the great outdoors and opened the first picnic grounds on Dry Creek (Dry Creek is the boundary line between Eden and Washington Townships as well as the first and second supervisorial districts). Being a versatile man, Andrew Jackson Hare was also a joiner and belonged to three lodges, being the worshipful master of Alameda lodge of Masons located at Centerville. He was an Odd Fellow and belonged to the Society of Friends (not Quakers). Had there been more people of Mr. Hare's type the town of Decoto might have grown to be a big city and possibly the county seat of Alameda county. But the majority of Decoto folks preferred farming and cattle raising. Large families were in the vogue and Ezra W. Decoto Sr. raised a family of seven or eight children. The May family and others boasted enough children in their respective families to support a grammar school.

There is still a picnic grounds along Dry Creek adjacent to the state highway now operated by the owner of a wayside service station. Many old timers believe this particular spot is deserving of a monument or plaque dedicated to Andrew Jackson Hare who believed in Decoto.

CHAMBER LEADERS ASKED TO MEET

All local Chambers of Commerce are urged to send representatives to the meeting of the boards of directors of all Chambers of Commerce in Southern Alameda County at Benard's Ice Cream Parlor, 1397 East Fourteenth street, San Leandro, on Friday, August 23 (today), at 12 noon.

NILES FURNITURE COMPANY PLANS FOR ENLARGEMENT

The Niles Furniture Company, in line with the continued growth of the firm, has announced plans for increasing floor space of their Niles store by 640 square feet. This will be accomplished by the addition of a four-foot mezzanine on each side of the store.

The installation is expected to take place within 10 days.

PRESIDENT IRENE HARVEY CONDUCTS Y.L.I. MEETING

On Tuesday, August 13, President Irene Harvey conducted the regular business meeting of St. Jude Institute No. 163.

Past President Mae Avila, who acted as a delegate, reported on the interests and activities of the annual convention held by the Y.L.I.

The convention was held in San Francisco, and will be held in Seattle, Wash., next year.

LEGION SPONSORS TERMINAL LEAVE PAY FOR VETS

According to C. M. Lyon, commander of Washington Township Post No. 195, American Legion, details are now being worked out in committee for handling terminal leave pay applications of Washington Township veterans who need help in filing their claims.

The service is entirely free of charge. Ex-G.I.'s are urged to contact volunteers from the post who will be available day and night for processing forms to be forwarded to Washington.

It was the American Legion that staged a last minute rally to force through Terminal Leave and Pension Increase Bills as Congressional doors were closing recently and again it is the American Legion that offers this free service.

According to Commander Lyon, the Legion is bound by tradition to render this service to all veterans, whether they are Legionnaires or not.

Machinery already set up now awaits the receipt of application blanks at the local post office which will be turned over to the local Legion pst.

As soon as complete details are ready, announcements will be made through the columns of this newspaper giving full directions to applicants.

NO SUMMER SLACK FOR IRVINGTON IMPROVEMENT CLUB

As result of a decision reached by the Irvington Improvement Club at their meeting held last week, a letter is being dispatched to the main office of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, requesting that something be done to eliminate the unsatisfactory telephone service in Irvington and vicinity.

Although certain arguments have been advanced explaining why the service is not likely to be improved immediately, the concensus of opinion is that the plan to campaign for a better brand of service is the first step toward actually securing it.

Better street lighting is another thing which the Improvement club would like to secure for Irvington, and to this end a letter is being sent to the P G & E, demanding to know why action, already authorized by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, has not been taken.

A general cleanup, particularly of Mission street, has been requested.

A committee of three, R. L. Pond, Wayne Day and Ben Cramer, was appointed by R. J. Wright, acting president, to draw up a three precinct map to make it easier for election workers to tally up votes.

BERKELEY PREACHER AT NEWARK SUNDAY

Rev. M. D. Berg of Berkeley will preach Sunday, August 25, at the Newark Presbyterian Church's morning service at 10 a.m., in the absence of Mr. C. O. Soults, who is visiting his parents in Los Angeles.

Rev. Berg's subject is "The One Foundation." He is said to be a fine speaker and has held important pastorates. The Soults will return the following week to carry on the church's work.

FARM NEWS
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

DAIRY OUTLOOK 'S BRIGHT

Dairy farmers of Alameda county are likely to continue a production of a record flow of milk the rest of this year, says Farm Advisor T. O. Morrison, and he explains why.

Although dairymen have fewer milk cows than a year ago, the first half of this year they got more milk per cow than ever before.

That record output was because of a number of things. Herds were culled heavily last year, and that meant better cows. Dairymen were still feeding concentrates heavily the first half of the year. Wider use of irrigated pasture also entered into this large production.

Demand for feed grains and by-product feeds for dairy cows will continue strong during the next few months. However, with fewer hogs and chickens, livestock farmers in general will not need as much feed as this time last year, and this is in favor of the dairymen.

So, all in all, the farm advisor thinks, the outlook for dairymen the balance of this year is rather favorable.

FREEZING STORAGE

You'll be interested in a few words about containers for freezing fruits and vegetables if you are going to use freezing this summer as a means for storing for winter use.

Mrs. Maryetta W. Holman, home demonstration agent, says moisture vapor-proof containers should be used for freezing storage of fruits and vegetables to prevent drying out of the product during storage.

Here are a few containers which she says will be satisfactory:

Bags made of a special grade of cellophane which can be sealed with heat. Waxed leak-proof cartons with openings which can be sealed.

Clean, odorless tin cans with sung-fitting lids. She says unenameled tins should not be used for red or dark-colored fruits.

Glass jars with straight sides are sometimes used, but the home demonstration agent cautions that they are bulky and likely to break.

If you have questions about freezing storage of fruits and vegetables, the home demonstration agent says she will be pleased to help and she has literature which is free. You'll find her at the Agricultural Extension Service, basement, post office building, Hayward.

GRAIN RESTRICTIONS UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Although 1946 crop prospects continue to improve, the United States Department of Agriculture still plans to wait until September before considering possibilities of easing domestic restrictions on grain consumption. Twice in early summer, Secretary Anderson said that the department will survey the grain pictures around September 1.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR PICKLES FOR ZEST

Pickles will provide the zest for winter meals, and this is pickle making time. Watermelon pickles, pickled figs, fruit pickles, spreads and relishes will make meals interesting to the family.

Pickles depend for their safe preservation upon maintenance of proper acidity. Only directions should be used which have been worked out and tested to be sure the product is safe as well as appetizing.

Simple directions for a variety of pickles have been included in a circular of the Agricultural Extension Service, "Pickling at Home," available from the home demonstration agent.

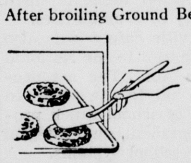
SPRING MAGIC FOR MEALTIME

This is the season of the year when winter furnishings look sort of drab. And the same applies to our tables. So plan to let the beef pot roast with its rich brown gravy and mashed potatoes give way to lamb casserole with its medley of small whole potatoes, new peas, carrots. Replace the heartier steamed puddings and their luxuriant sauces with refrigerator desserts or well-chilled fruits and simple wafers.

LAMB TROTTERS: Mighty good eating is this dish of lamb shanks, one to a person for a hearty serving, simmered until tender in boiling water, the amount depending upon how much gravy is desired. For flavor, add an onion, celery tops, salt, pepper. Allowing just enough time for the vegetables to cook, add small whole carrots or carrot strips, scraped new potatoes. When nearly cooked, stir in 1 cup or more of fresh or frozen peas and a thin flour and water or cream thickening, turn into a casserole and serve with rice muffins, a green salad and not much else.

JUST TO BE DIFFERENT: Next time you plan on Fricassee Chicken, serve it with this Fried Mush. Stir 1 cup cornmeal slowly into 4 cups boiling water. Add 1 small can deviled ham, and cook until thickened, stirring all the time. Turn into greased loaf pans to chill. To serve, slice and dip in cornmeal. Brown each side in bacon or ham drippings. Add a salad of mixed greens, with ice-cold coffee gelatin or Bavarian cream to finish off, and there is A Meal!



After broiling Ground Beef Patties on one side, turn and spread uncooked side with a mixture of ¼ cup minced onion, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons softened butter, margarine or bacon drippings, for 4 patties. Continue broiling. Serve with fried thinly sliced raw potatoes, coleslaw, and deep dish cherry or berry pie, or cobbler, and cream.

Allow slices of beef liver, 1 pound, to rest two hours or more in ½ cup tomato juice with thinly sliced garlic. Drain, add salt and pepper, dip in flour, and cook quickly in hot drippings. Serve with scalloped canned tomatoes (juice used for the liver), and hash-browned potatoes with minced onion; apple sauce and ginger cookies.

4 ways to enjoy fresh sweet corn

Nothing is so good as boiled or steamed corn on the cob! But after it begins to lose its first appeal, here are other delicious ways of preparing sweet corn.

ROASTED OR BROILED CORN—Place husked, cleaned, young, tender corn brushed with melted butter or margarine on broiler rack about 3 inches below broiler unit. Broil about 10 minutes, or until toasty brown, brushing with butter or margarine and turning frequently as it broils. Serve hot.

BARBECUED CORN—Try this on your outdoor barbecue. Pull husks back from young, tender corn and remove silks, but leave on at least one layer of husks. Sprinkle or dip in water. Place on grill above glowing coals; roast about 10 minutes, or until tender, turning frequently. Leaving the husk on the corn allows it to steam, retaining full flavor and tenderness.

SAUTEED CORN—Cut corn from cob. In frying pan melt a small amount of butter or margarine or drippings. Saute corn about 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add a little green pepper, if desired. Season to taste with salt and pepper and a tablespoon or two of cream.

FRESH CORN PUDDING
An old favorite that almost everyone likes.

2 cups corn, cut from 5 medium-size ears) (approximately
2 eggs, beaten
4 tsps. melted butter or margarine
2 cups milk
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
½ cup grated cheese

Mix corn, eggs, milk, green pepper, salt, pepper and butter or margarine together in a large bowl. Pour into a well-greased casserole. Sprinkle cheese over top. Set casserole in pan containing about 1 inch of hot water. Bake about 45 minutes in a moderate (350° F.) oven, or until tip of sharp knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serves 6.

The Township Must Come of Age

It is time Washington Township came of age.

Washington Township is a family. It is a family comprised of eight children—Irvington, Newark, Decoto, Niles, Warm Springs, Centerville, Alvarado and Mission San Jose.

These "children" have been children long enough. Now they must put away their toys and realize that they must take an adult position in the world.

In other words, they must quit their squabbling, their petty jealousies, their youthful back-biting, their whinings of "he did this to me, so I'm going to get even," and settle down to the business of living.

The business of living in Washington Township, as in any other family, is to pull together for one common goal, instead of pulling separately for chaos.

The most juvenile trait of all, in this township family (as any long-time resident will admit), is the absurd and implacable jealousy of one town for another. This jealousy has been nurtured and pampered throughout the years, until now it is a thriving, growing thing that threatens to choke off any spirit of cooperation that dares to show its face.

Suggestions that have arisen in the past concerning township-wide activities invariably evoke this question: "Which town shall it be in?"

Because no town will gracefully retire, saying "Yours is the best situated for such a project; you take it," the idea, or project, dies still-born.

If today, the state were to apportion funds for a recreation center in the township (this is merely to be used as an illustration, not, by any means, as even a possibility), the probable outcome of such a munificent gesture on the state's part would be this: There would never be any recreation center, because the towns could not get together on location, each one selfishly wanting it in its own confines.

To cite another example: If the township as a whole should ever decide that it would be feasible to incorporate, would it be possible to have a city hall? Probably not! The reason being, of course, that never would the seven other towns decide on the eighth one!

The spirit of rivalry is fine between football teams. But in a community where a boost for one town is a boost for all the others, rivalry and jealousy is to be deplored.

The township is peculiar in that it IS A UNIT. It's a unit comprised, as we've said, of the eight towns. The eight towns MUST grow up emotionally for the good of the whole.

Rather than moping because Newark or Centerville, or some other one of the towns, gets some new buildings or new homes or new roads, be glad that one of your sister cities has had this good fortune befall it; because it means that your town, too, will benefit.

Bay Bridge II

When the multi-million dollar bridge across San Francisco Bay was completed a decade ago, it appeared to be sufficient to care for trans-bay traffic needs for a long time to come. But at that time no one foresaw the war and the enormous expansion in population around this area and throughout the state that would follow from it. But now the great span is already obsolete. Its nine lanes for automotive traffic on two levels can no longer accommodate the great river of traffic that flows across it during the rush hours. Cars line up bumper to bumper, mile after mile, and it is not unusual for nearly an hour to be spent by the motorist in making the crossing which should hardly require more than a few minutes. But just what type of a structure will be built and its exact location have yet to be decided. There are almost as many different plans as there are cars during the rush periods.

GENERAL EISENHOWER'S REPORT
VI

In concluding this report it is with regret that I am unable to record here the details of my personal and official obligations and gratitude to those who served so devotedly at Supreme Headquarters and at the other headquarters which cooperated so loyally and effectively with us. Nor can I make adequate recognition of the collaboration of those many individuals in civil and military positions in Great Britain and the United States with whom my duties brought me into contact, and whose efforts aided in a major degree the accomplishment of our common task. Yet I know that all these would have me pay a final tribute to the memory of two very senior and gallant officers who started the campaign with us and who lost their lives before its conclusion. These were Admiral Sir Bertram H. Ramsay of the Royal Navy, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory of the Royal Air Force. At the beginning of the operation these officers were respectively my Naval Commander-in-Chief and my Air Commander-in-Chief. The former lost his life in an airplane accident near Versailles, France, while still serving in the same capacity. The latter, relieved from my command to take over the Allied Air Forces in Southeast Asia, was lost in an airplane accident near Grenoble, France. The war service, the devotion to duty, and the sacrifice of these two outstanding men typify the irreplaceable cost of the campaign represented in the lives of thousands of officers and enlisted men and members of the women's services, of the American, British, and French forces.

All of them died in the spirit of that unity which joined the Allies in our common ideals. To them, and to those who bear the wounds of battle, we, their comrades in arms, render most grateful and humble tribute.

Under the arrangements made by the Combined Chiefs of Staff for the control of the field forces, General of the Army George C. Marshall acted as their executive in transmitting to me their orders and instructions. Moreover, under the most distinguished Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson, General Marshall was always my direct administrative superior in my capacity as a commander of United States Army forces. To this great soldier-statesman, I owe a particular debt for his friendly counsel and constant support. There was nothing throughout the war so morally sustaining as the knowledge that General Marshall concurred in the plans I was adopting and the means I was taking to put them into effect.

New residents in Canyon Heights are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Harralson and two sons. They purchased the Duarte residence on Canyon Heights Drive.

Monday morning Mr. Robert Nielsen was involved in a minor automobile accident in Hayward while en route to work in Oakland. In an attempt to avoid hitting a dog, he had to stop suddenly which resulted in the car in back of him crashing into the rear of the Nielsen car. The latter's gas tank was damaged and the front end of the other car was badly damaged. Aside from a general shaking up, the passengers in the Nielsen car, including Mrs. Clarence Hale, Mr. Lou Nielsen and Mr. Harold Nielsen, were not injured.

Thinking Things Over...

By VIVIAN BATMAN

So I saved the price of two theater tickets!

Nobody seems to know where the six-hundred-year-old bridge is in California. Has nobody around here ever visited Muir Woods? If you have, you doubtless crossed this bridge. It is a six-hundred-year-old redwood log hewn off flat and thrown across the stream!

If you have never been to Muir Woods, it will make a nice Sunday drive for you. It's one of the prettiest spots in this part of the state.

CRUEL FATE

Fate, in its cruelest form, is dogging my footsteps. I know this to be a fact because Whenever I arrive at a bus station, the bus has just gone.

When I get in a nylon line, the last pair is sold to the woman just ahead of me.

When I go to get into an elevator, there's room for only one more—and it's the person in front of me.

When I get to the grocery store, having heard about mayonnaise, they're "sorry, but the last jar was just sold."

When I read a menu in a restaurant and decide on roast beef, the waitress will come up with a pencil and viciously strike off everything but fish.

When I go to buy a dress, the shop-keeper is sorry—they had my size yesterday and will have it again next week, but not today.

The other day, for a few minutes, I thought that Fate had decided to play on my side. I got into a line, and finally found myself right at the head of the line, only to discover, with an awful let-down, that now I could buy a package of bubble gum!

Open Letter to President Truman

Dear President:

Not long ago I wrote you a letter about the shortage of boy's shorts. Apparently you read my letter, because now the shorts are not so short, for which I am deeply grateful.

Now I come to you, Mr. President, about a similar, and even more distressing problem. I—and about a million or so other women—are practically at the boiling point over the sheet situation. To put it bluntly, Mr. President, there are none!

Last week I tried curtains on the bed, but my husband said the ruffles bothered him. This week I tried a couple of table cloths, and he complained that the colors—they were flowered ones—were too garish and kept him awake. Next week I will probably sew old gunny sacks together, or perhaps rip off the canvas of the lawn chairs.

What are you doing for sheets in the White House, Mr. President? Doubtless, your table cloths and lawn chairs are of a finer texture than ours, so you'll probably manage to survive the ordeal.

I know you are working hard, trying to get the world peaceful-like again, but you will never have any peace until you arrange for sheets to be put back into the linen closets of America. Given enough people sleeping between lace curtains and dish toweling, and what have you got, Mr. President? Why you've got the seeds of a revolution! So think it over, Mr. President.

Your obd't S'vant,

BEAUTY SECRET

Talking to a young lady who was employed not so long ago in the powder room of the famous Brown Derby in Hollywood, I learned what she learned while working there—and listening to the movie stars. The stars do not, as you might suppose, acquire their beautiful complexions only via the Lux soap or Ivory way. They use—once or twice a week, depending on the sensitiveness of the skin—plain old-fashioned mechanic's Lava soap!

They say it does wonders for the skin. I'll try it if you will!

GIRLS MEET TO DISCUSS DANCE

During a meeting last Wednesday at the home of Irene Romirez, the Miss Pan-American Girls' Club of Alvarado, discussed plans for their big formal dance to be held September 7 at the I.D.E.S. hall in Alvarado.

According to Emily Dominguez, club president, the girls intend to make the affair one of the most pretentious and colorful ever held in Alvarado.

At present they are seeking the services of a good orchestra.

The first San Francisco bay ferryman was Indian Chief Marin, who went into the ferry business in 1814.

MISSION SAN JOSE

three a.m., little Miss Kathryn Eunice came to make her home with "Kay" and "Hardy." She weighed in at eight pounds and will be home to her friends very soon.

On Sunday, September 8, Miss Isabel Santos, daughter of Mrs. Marie Santos of the Mission-Livermore highway, will become the bride of Theodore Garvia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Garcia of the Niles highway. Both are graduates of the Washington Union High School and the Mission grammar school, and Teddy was in the U. S. Army all during the war, and is now employed at the Weibel Champagne Vineyards here in the Mission. They will make their home in the Mission on Ellsworth street where Frank Dias, local carpenter, is remodeling the former Pierce home for occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gonzales of Pinole spent Sunday here visiting at the Torres and Martinez residence.

Manuel Pedro is a happy man for he has received word that his son, Sgt. Albert Pedro, who has been over on Coreia for many months, is on his way home for discharge. He will be a welcome addition to the farm once again.

Lois Justus, postmaster at the Mission, has received word that her son, Bert, has been rated as a sergeant and expects to be on his way home from Tokyo, Japan, shortly after the first of September. Pfc. Daniel L. Silva, who made his home with Mrs. Rose Recend and has been over in Guam with the U. S. Marines for a long time, is also on his way home very shortly.

Mervin Santos and Allie Santos were hosts at a weiner roast and swimming party held Saturday evening at Alum Rock Park, where a large crowd of Mission's younger set and a few much married folks enjoyed the evening. Attending were: Fred and Louise Kohlmos, Tom and Ruth Santos, "Cappy" Cunha, Billy Perreira, Elaine Neeley, Herman Medeiros, Melvin Souza, Henry Silva and his sister, Marie, and Margaret Spetti, Eddie Azevedo, Herbie and Mary Edith Santos, Doris Metz, Colleen and Barbara Jibson, Johnnie Souza, Freddie and Smitty and the hosts, Mervin and Allie Santos.

Miss Annie Untiedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johannas Untiedt, is vacationing at Big Basin with friends.

Vacationing at Camp Connell in the Calavaras mountains, with their aunt, Mrs. Dora Connell, are Donnie, Rick and Evelyn Meyers, children of Mrs. Grace Meyer.
